Text Messaging Guide

Introduction

The new and improved VERVE 2™ app was designed with the capability to communicate with the internet! Specifically, the VERVE 2™ app can now send text messages to any phone from your computer using your mapped sensor profile. The VERVE 2™ app sends text messages by creating a temporary email server (SMTP server) and sending a specially formatted email to any phone number. This specially formatted email is then converted by the recipient's wireless carrier and sent to the recipient's phone as a text message.

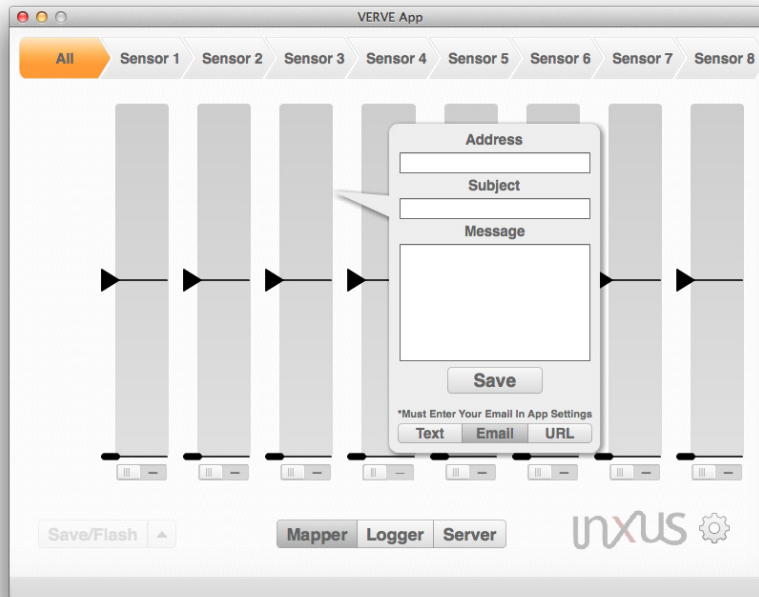

Many of the top carriers in most countries are already configured into the VERVE 2™ app and does not require any extra work from you. You can check if your recipient's wireless carrier is already configured trying to map a text message in the VERVE 2™ app and looking in the Carrier list. If your recipient's carrier is not listed, follow the simple steps below to send text messages to any phone number.

Check if your recipient's wireless carrier is already configured by checking the Carrier list in the Text section of the Web mapping option in the VERVE 2™ app.

Sending Text Messages to Any Phone Number

To send a text message to any phone number, you will configure an email that gets sent to the recipient's wireless carrier. To access the email functionality, go onto the mapper page of the VERVE 2™ app, click a zone on a sensor bar, click the “Web” button and click the “Email” button. Your screen should look similar to the screen below.

Send a text message to any phone by sending a special email to the recipient's cellular carrier. Access the Email page in the Web functionality on the Mapper page.

The address you will use depends on the recipient's wireless carrier. A complete list of wireless carriers and the proper formatting for the email address is attached below. Once you locate the recipient's carrier, you will input that email address into the “Address” bar of the email page. For instance, if you are sending a text message to a phone with Boost Mobile™, the email address would be: 5555555555@myboostmobile.com.

After the address is complete, you can enter whatever information you would like your text message to have in the Message box. You can leave the Subject box blank. Then click the “Save” button. You can now send text messages to that phone number!
